DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-5, 9, and 10 drawn to a production method for a RFT supporting member, classified in class 156, subclass 110.1.
  - II. Claims 6 and 7, drawn to an RFT support member and the associated tire construction, classified in class 152, subclass 516.
  - III. Claim 8, drawn to a production device for producing a ring shaped RFT supporting member, classified in class 156, subclass 394.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the RFT support member and associated tire can be formed by a materially different process, for example one in which shaping is not accomplished by a deep drawing process (use additional metal forming/shaping techniques).
3. Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the process as claimed can be performed by another and materially different apparatus, such as one devoid of a bag member formed of an elastic and stretchable membrane material and filled with liquid (additional apparatus/structure can be used to apply pressure to the cylindrical member). Additionally, the apparatus can be used to practice another and materially different process, for example one in which an article not serving as a runflat tire support member is formed (additional shaped/curved metallic assemblies).

4. Inventions II and III are related as apparatus and product made. The inventions in this relationship are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the apparatus as claimed is not an obvious apparatus for making the product and the apparatus can be used for making a materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different apparatus (MPEP § 806.05(g)). In this case, the product can be made by another and materially different apparatus, such as one devoid of a bag member formed of an elastic and stretchable membrane material and filled with liquid (additional apparatus/structure can be used to apply pressure to the cylindrical member). Additionally, the apparatus can be used to practice another and materially different process, for example one in which an article not serving as a runflat tire support member is formed (additional shaped/curved metallic assemblies).

5. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

6. A telephone call was made to Steven Gruskin on February 13, 2008 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.
